

Supply Chain Manager (m/f/d)

Honest Food is Europe's leading „Ghost Restaurant“ chain - parent company to the most beloved and successful food delivery brands on the continent. All our virtual restaurant brands are developed specifically for delivery and can only be purchased online through platforms like Deliveroo or Foodora. Our family of digitally optimized partner restaurants prepare the food with the highest attention to detail to make sure that each household in every region can enjoy the perfect food delivery experience at any time.

Since the company's foundation in 2017, we've worked hard to become one of Europe's fastest growing companies in food tech. Whilst a lot has been achieved already, we are hungrier than ever to completely change the rules of global food delivery. We believe that highly motivated and talented people are the key to master our ambitious goals ahead. We are expanding strongly, backed by some of the most prominent VCs in tech. Join our team now, we are hiring the best talent on every position.

To exponentially grow our company and successfully conquer new markets with a scalable infrastructure, we are hiring a Supply Chain Manager who takes responsibility for the entire food supply chain.

Your position:

- Monitor and optimize inventory levels in all warehouses (central HUBs, regional HUBs, partner restaurants) across all countries to ensure product availability and working capital efficiency
- Manage our external suppliers: identify potential suppliers together with our culinary team, negotiate and manage contracts
- Manage central purchasing of food and non-food supplies for all warehouses across Europe
- Manage our proprietary food production capacities together with our production head
- Manage international logistics and regional logistics HUBs: define, control and dynamically optimize warehouse KPIs; supervise regional logistics managers and regional logistics to our partner restaurants (SOPs, tour planning, cash collection)
- Continuously control and optimize all cost along the entire supply chain (procurement, production, logistics) and lead make vs. buy decisions for each area of the supply chain
- Prepare the supply chain for international expansion: set up international and regional logistics, recruit and manage local teams

Your profile:

- Top of the line analytical & quantitative skills, paired with hands-on growth mentality
- Strong communication skills and experience in international team setups
- Top-notch organizational skills and high process affinity
- High attention to detail and ability to juggle multiple tasks and conflicting deadlines at once
- Entrepreneurial mindset and business sense to make things happen
- Above average university degree in business administration from top-tier university
- 2+ years of professional experience

What we offer:

- Opportunity to significantly shape one of the fastest growing consumer brand companies in food tech with massive public exposure, well-funded by tier one venture capital
- High potential for personal growth and fast career development
- Steep learning curve and direct work in strategic projects with Honest Food's leadership team
- Dynamic, fast paced environment and an amazing, passionate team in the heart of Berlin
- Free food and drinks - after all we are in the food business and have our own office chef :-)
- Attractive salary and benefits package

Ready to take our food supply chain to the next level? We are looking forward to meeting you!

Drop us a mail at jobs@honestfoodcompany.de